Program Overview

The Business Psychology DBA equips professionals with advanced expertise in human behaviour, organisational dynamics, and evidence-based leadership. The program blends psychological theory with practical business application to improve performance, motivation, and workplace culture. Delivered in English with flexible study options, it supports working professionals pursuing senior roles. Students explore topics such as behavioural science, organisational development, leadership psychology, and research methods. The program concludes with a doctoral research project addressing a real organisational or behavioural challenge. Graduates are prepared to design people-centred strategies that strengthen organisations and drive sustainable success.
